About the College

Modern Law College was established by the Society in the year 2003 at Ganeshkhind, Pune-16 with an object of imparting quality based legal education. The College conducts the five years Integrated Law course, three years Bachelor of Laws course and Master of Laws course along with Diploma Courses in various subjects like Diploma in Taxation Laws, Diploma in Labour Laws and Labour Welfare, Diploma in Intellectual Property Laws and Diploma in Cyber Laws. In a short span of time, our Law College has made a remarkable development, academic as well as in infrastructure. Following the tradition of Progressive Education Society, our College has witnessed many moments of pride when our students were ranked in University Examinations as well as many other sports and extra - curricular activities. The college always believes in the philosophy of imparting education through social transformation. Towards this end, the college has organized various National and State Level Seminars, National Level Moot Court Competitions, and other activities for the students.

About the Seminar

The Right to Privacy per say is not a specifically guaranteed fundamental right under the Constitution of India, however the apex court has time and again interpreted it indirectly as a part and parcel of fundamental rights. There have been instances in various cases decided by the apex court. The right to privacy in India has come a long way from the decision given in Kharak Singh's case which was one of the first instances which incorporated right to privacy with as an integral part of right to life and personal liberty. Subsequently, this right has come under the radar of reasonable restrictions under Article 19 (2) and with the different facets of this right been invoked by a plethora of judgments including the areas like privacy in communications, freedom of movement, physical privacy and mental privacy, Unique Identification Number related privacy, etc., there are still different facets of the right which need to be established. With the DNA Profiling Bill, again the discussion relating to right to privacy has come on the forefront. This Seminar is therefore an attempt to analyse the right to privacy from different perspectives and check the status of this right.

Objectives of the Seminar

- To understand the various facets of Right to Privacy in India
- To determine the scope of Right to Privacy which can be guaranteed
- To analyse the significance of technological advancements on the restrictions on Right to Privacy
- To analyse the effect of DNA profiling, biometric identification, etc. on the criminal liability on the accused.

On 24th August, Right to privacy has become fundamental right guaranteed under our Constitution after the Hon'ble Supreme Court in 9 judge bench, held that right to privacy is intrinsic part of Art. 21 right to life and personal liberty. It has become one of the most indispensable decisions in India that overruled the previous judgments held in M.P. Sharma case and Kharak Singh case with ratio of 8 and 6 bench judgments.

Any right being elevated to the status of a fundamental is a big event in the Constitutional Research and especially if there is Right to Privacy which is in question then the importance of this right further enhances due to the information technology era. Data privacy in light of the Aadhar Act and the possibility of Human DNA Profiling in India around the corner has further enhanced the impact of the recent Judgment of Justice K.S. Puttuswamy v. Union of India and Others. The notion of Fundamental Rights has been enhanced due to this judgment which will have a far reaching impact on the Interpretation of Fundamental Rights in India, especially in this era of Information Technology. There are going to conflicting interests involved in the process of application of this right as a fundamental right.

The academic discourse and dialogue in this field definitely helped in enhancing the knowledge of this newly accepted Fundamental Right for its proper utilization. It is with this objective that the College conducted the National Seminar to which there was a tremendous support from all the participants. There was an overwhelming response to the Seminar and participants from all over the country gathered to deliberate on the topic of right to privacy. Participants registered from Gujarat, Rajasthan, Delhi, Hyderabad, Karnataka and many parts of Maharashtra for this seminar. Out if the many abstracts submitted for participation for research paper presentation, 22 papers were selected for presentation as well as publication in the Seminar Proceeding bearing an ISBN number.

The Schedule of the Inaugural Session was as follows:

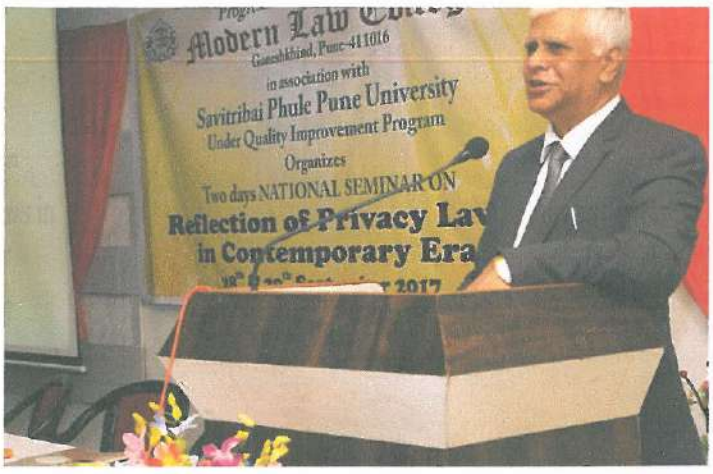
The keynote address was delivered by Prof. Dr. Bhavani Prasad Panda, Vice Chancellor of Maharashtra National Law University, Mumbai. He discussed about the concept of Right to Privacy and its relevance in our life right from childhood. The concept of privacy changes from person to person and from age to age. The concept of privacy has gained importance in this era due to the impact of information technology on our lives. The changing global scenario of collection and dissemination of information through the companies like Google is a very great threat to the privacy of the people. With the implementation of the Adhaar Scheme being changed to Adhaar Act, there are further dimensions of privacy being tapped and utilised. The Jurisprudence of right to privacy has to still grow to attain maturity for the contemporary society.



Technical Session I

The First Technical Session was conducted by Prof. Dr. Shruti Tambe, Head, Department of Sociology who spoke about the Right to Privacy from the Sociological perspective citing contemporary issues and providing insights on the various issues pertaining to the elevation of right to privacy as a fundamental right. In modernity, the suppression of privacy has increased to a great extent. This conception has enhanced in its application in the modern era as compared to the medieval era. Survelliance is the essence of Bio-power, which is a new concept which curtails the ideas and thinking which affects the human life and dignity.

One Day Workshop on 'Nexus between Law and Social Justice: In Contemporary Era'

The idea of Social Justice and Social Welfare is fundamental and dynamic in the administration of a country. As pointed out by Dr. B. R. Ambedkar in his last speech delivered in the Constituent Assembly on 25th November 1949, the burden of creating the society based on the principles of Liberty, Equality and Fraternity which ultimately leads towards the era of social justice is bestowed upon us, "We the people of India". To achieve the goal of Social, Economic and Political Justice as enshrined under the preamble of the Constitution of India, we have to take careful steps in creating and implementing the laws in India. The Legal fraternity, Law Makers as well as academicians, are carrying the responsibility of taking the chariot of justice ahead. Keeping this in mind the Savitribai Phule Pune University, Department of Law in Collaboration with P. E. Society's Modern Law College has organised One Day Workshop on 'Nexus between Law and Social Justice: In Contemporary Era' on 5th October, 2017.

The idea of Social Justice cannot be studied without exploring the role played by the law in this regard. The law has the most vital role to play in rendering the social justice. This workshop is arranged mainly with focus of the relationship of Law with the idea of Social Justice in the contemporary era. The Law makers and Academicians are the main players who shape the legal policies and therefore they are instrumental in achieving the goals of social justice. In this workshop all the stake holders including, legal practitioners, judicial officers and academicians are expected to deliberate on the intricacies involved in and around this topic. Again, to quote Dr. B. R. Ambedkar, while elaborating the idea of justice had very aptly said,

> "Justice has always evoked ideas of equality, of proportion of compensation. Equity signifies equality. Rules and regulations, right and righteousness are concerned with equality in value. If all men are equal, then all men are of the same essence, and the common essence entitles them of the same fundamental rights and equal liberty... In short justice is another name of liberty, equality and fraternity."

With the spirit of above vision, this workshop aimed to throw light on various dimensions of the Social Justice and it's inter-relationship with the Law. The role played by law is unparallel in transforming the dimensions of the social justice in all phases of times. Law and Legal Fraternity had been significant in expanding the horizons of Social Justice. The general theme of workshop included following sub themes but not limited to

a. Access to Justice : The means, Modes and Methods of Law
b. Role of Judiciary in promoting social Justice
c. Social Justice, Social Security and Social Welfare laws

The workshop also included two sessions dedicated to Analysis and Review of some prominent books on the issues of Social Justice written by many champions of Social Justice. To name few Dr. B. R. Ambedkar, Justice V. R. Krishna Iyer, Justice Subba Rao, Amartya Sen and many others have written voluminous number of pages on the different angles of the Social Justice. Their views at this juncture of times are beacon showing the paths and therefore inevitable to study.

Prof. Dr. Durgambini Patel, Head- Department of Law, SPPU, Pune delivering her welcome address

Prof. Dr. Paramjeet Jaswal Sir addressing the valedictory session

Our 2nd resource person Prof. Dr. Nishta Jaswal started with her speech. While giving her speech she mentioned landmark judgements of Supreme Court of India wherein fundamental rights having direct relation to use of natural resources were discussed and recognized. She further stated that all the sustainable development goals are inter-dependent and thus conveyed how crucial it is to work towards those. Being a poet at the same time she recited few lines of her own about nature and appealed through her words to be nature friendly. She also quoted few lines of the father of our nation Adv. Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi wherein he has said, "Happiness is achieved through harmony in thoughts, sayings and doings."

Prof. Dr. Nishta Jaswal Madam addressing the students

According to him we are having wrong notions of sustainable development as panels used in the solar system are indestructible, he also said use of e-vehicles will largely affect use of coal thus increasing it to a greater extent.

Dr. Bharat Vhankate Sir

Day 1

3rd Technical Session: - Environment Sustainability (Post-Lunch)

Dr. Shyam Bajekal Sir, Emeritus Biodiversity Fellow, Maharashtra State Biodiversity Board was the resource person for the 3rd technical session. He stated that there are 4 pillars of sustainable development namely society, human, economy and environment. He described nature as a goose laying golden eggs which certainly reminded us of the story of the goose laying golden eggs who was killed by her owner because of his greed. He sharply pointed out extensive use of technology is making our nature ill because of which habitat loss, forest fires, et cetera take place. Further he gave information about ways of saving the nature wherein he gave an insight about the Biological Diversity Act, 2002 of India also mentioning about various conventions and protocols. He informed us about the ABS system i.e. Access to Biological Resources and Benefit Sharing which has proved to be a significant concept in India.

Dr Shyam Bajekal Sir

Asst. Prof. Mayura Borde madam introduced the resource person Dr. Pradeep Purandare, Former Member of State Level Expert Committee on 'Integrated State Water Plan' who then began with his speech. During his speech he talked to us about various acts and statutes as well as government bodies as regards to sustainable development of water resources and water governance in India wherein he talked about the inefficiency as even today rules which are repealed by law itself are taken into consideration and are still followed. He is of the view that Maharashtra Water Resources Regulatory Authority Act which was one of its kind could have made the situation better but due to an amendment it is now under the supervision of the government which has proved unfruitful. While answering to one of the questions raised, he revealed that there is no any authority to keep a check on these aspects. Also, he mentioned literature is vast on these aspects but there is no action seen.

Day 2

6th Technical Session: - Sustainability and Climate Change

Dr. Priyadarshini Karve madam, Director, Samuchit Envirotech who was our second resource person in the 6th technical session of Day 2 started with her speech. She gave us a brief idea about Ecological Footprint. On the basis of calculation our Ecological Footprint is 1.3 times of our earth. The extra 30% is the unnecessary part is what she stated. In fact, the ideal ecological footprint should either be 0.7 or 0.8 so that other species are able to use the resources. She stated that increasing population is often blamed but it is not an issue as population will stabilize at some point of time but the main problem behind it is the greed of having more which is causing danger to our own environment. She also talked about the Paris Agreement for Climate Change. She further stated that urban areas are the ones causing emission but effects of it are faced by rural and tribal areas and no empathy is shown towards them. She has a strong opinion that efficiency should be combined with sufficiency in order to make sure that our environment is taken care of.

Dr. Priyadarshini Karve madam, Director, Samuchit Envirotech

Dr. Dilip Chate Sir, Scientist, IITM, Pune resource person for the 6th technical session of Day 2 started with his speech. While doing so, he talked about the National Food Security Bill. He stated authentic data should be taken into consideration as neglecting such statistics is causing harm to respiratory of a large number of people in the country. He stressed that urbanization shall be there but keeping in mind the sustainable development goals. One such method can be having green roof tops in the urban areas was a suggestion given by sir. While answering to one of the questions raised, he said that even though data is available there is a huge gap between analyzing and planning, which if executed in a proper way can prove beneficial.

Dr Dilip Chate Sir

Asst. Prof. Savita Bansode madam introduced our resource person for the 7th technical session of Day 2 Dr. Ankur Patwardhan Sir, Head, Department of Biodiversity, Abasaheb Garware College and Chairman, High Level Monitoring Committee Eco Sensitive Zone. While doing so he revealed that Pollination is an ecosystem service by honeybees, value of which cannot be determined in money. He further told us about the medicinal values/characteristics of plants available in India, the number of which exceeds 8000 and more than 50% of which are serving for primary healthcare. He presented before us a comparative study of two villages one of which had conserved their forest and another of which had destroyed it completely. The one without a forest faced drought for a very long period whereas the other having conserved their forest faced drought but only for 15 days. Also, agricultural produce in the village without a forest had reduced over time but in another village it was efficient.

Dr. Ankur Patwardhan Sir being felicitated by Dr Sunita Adhav Madam

About

The term 'Sustainable Development' has been on the anvil of International community since nearly four decades. The meaning and perspective of sustainability has changed according to the changing times, however, the importance of incorporating the sustainability approach in the day-to-day working from households to Industries has never been watered down. Sustainable development is in the news every day as the world copes with climate change, biodiversity loss, conflict and resource scarcity. With the new millennium and the Sustainable Development Goals introduced by the United Nations Organisation, the importance of incorporating them in the lifestyles of persons through state action as well as individual action has increased. It is well accepted that deliberations and discussions on such subjects clarifying the status of sustainable development and the possible additions and incorporations required in the lifestyles of individuals needs to be pondered upon from time to time. It is with this view that the College wishes to conduct the Multidisciplinary National Seminar involving cross-cutting issues relating to the Legal, Political, Social, Ethical and Environmental perspectives of the Sustainable Development.

Objectives of the Seminar

1. To understand the various facets of Sustainable Development
2. To determine the current trends in Sustainable Development Internationally

Report of the Webinar

The National Webinar on the "Implementation of the National Education Policy in Higher Education: Issues and Challenges" was conducted on Monday, 17th August 2020 at 1:00 p.m. and was joined by more than 500 participants from all over India through the platform of Google Meets as well as through YouTube Live and Facebook Live. It was a moment of immense pleasure and pride that Progressive Education Society's Modern Law College had organized its very first Webinar, and the topic of the webinar would not have been more apt than the one which was chosen which is "Implementation of National Education Policy in Higher Education: Issues and Challenges".

Right from its inception, Modern Law College has always been on the forefront in discussing various cross cutting issues in all the Seminars conducted under the able guidance of our Honorable Chairman, Prof. Dr. Gajanan Ekbote Sir. In these difficult times of COVID-19 pandemic, it was only through his insightful ideas that this Webinar has come to reality.

Before a year, the New Education Policy draft was floated. There were recommendations sought and we are proud to share with all that our Progressive Education Society was one of the first Educational Institute exclusively discussing on this and sending recommendations for the same. Keeping our tradition of being progressive and modern we have taken up this topic of discussing the implementation related issues and challenges of the National Education Policy focusing on higher education sector.

Some key features of the National Education Policy are :

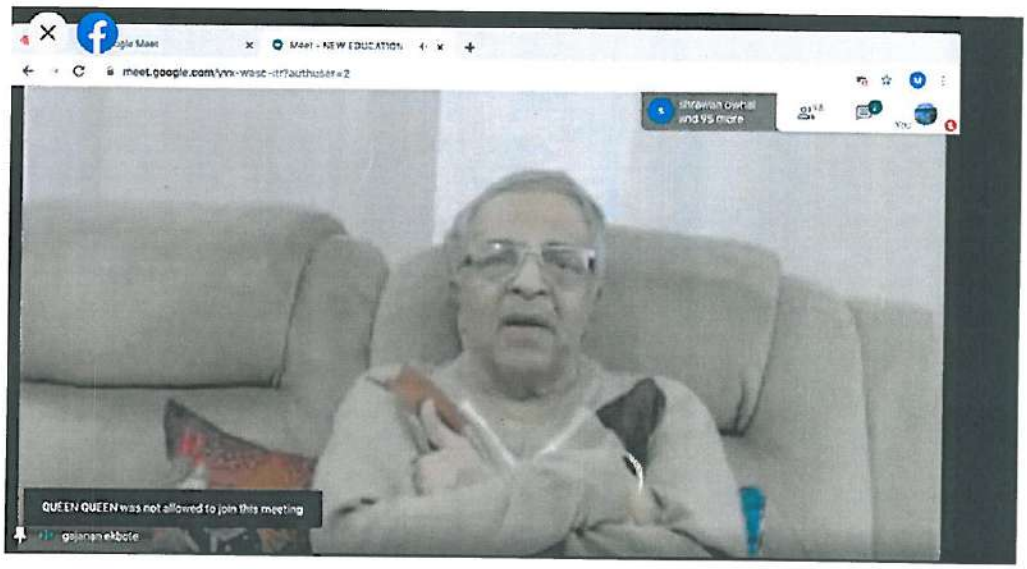
- The aim will be to increase the Gross Enrolment Ratio in higher education including vocational education from 26.3% to 50% by 2035.
- Single-stream higher education institutions will be phased out over time, and all will move towards becoming multidisciplinary.
- The system of 'affiliated colleges' will be gradually phased out in 15 years.
- A university will mean a multidisciplinary institution that offers undergraduate and graduate programmes, with high quality teaching, research, and community engagement.
- The undergraduate degree will be of either 3 or 4-year duration, with multiple exit options.
- An Academic Bank of Credit (ABC) shall be established which would digitally store the academic credits earned.
- Higher education institutions shall move away from high-stakes examinations towards continuous and comprehensive evaluation.
- India will be promoted as a global study destination providing premium education at affordable costs.
- High performing Indian universities will be encouraged to set up campuses in other countries.
- Selected universities like those from among the top 100 universities in the world will be facilitated to operate in India.

- In every education institution, there shall be counselling systems for handling stress and emotional adjustments.

- Vocational education will be integrated into all school and higher education institutions in a phased manner over the next decade.

But all these key features are practically useless until we look into the implementation aspects of them. And therefore, our College organized this Webinar on "Implementation of National Education Policy in Higher Education: Issues and Challenges".

The Welcome address was given by Principal Dr. Sunita Adhav in which she elaborated on the need of discussion and deliberation on the Implementation of the New Education Policy in Higher Education and extended a warm welcome to all the Resource Persons and the Participants.



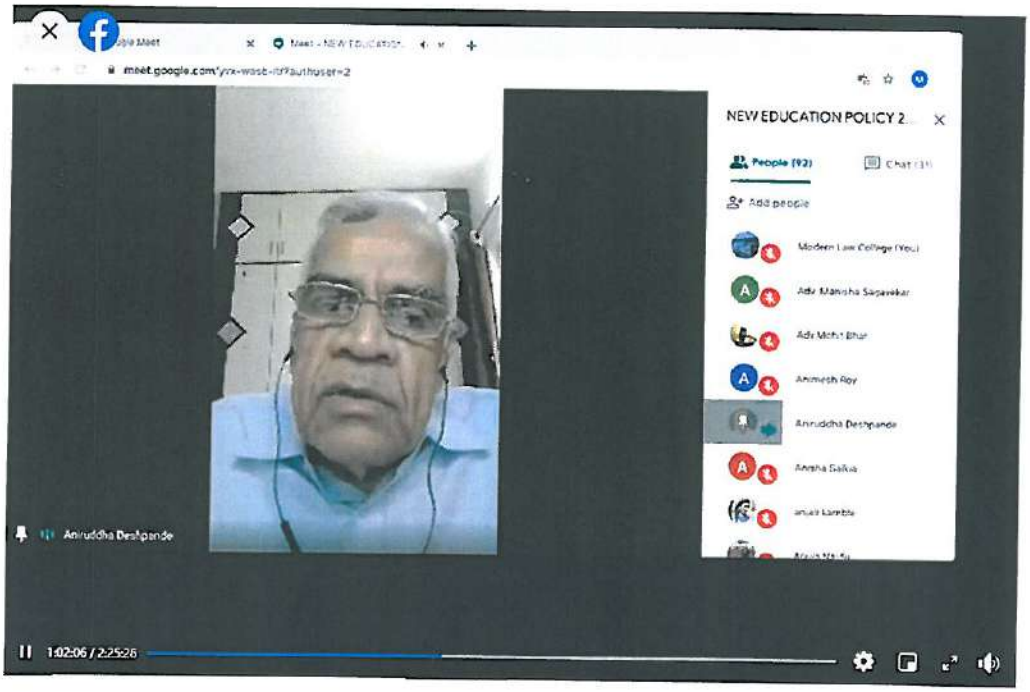
Prof. Dr. Gajanan Ekbote Addressing the Participants of the Webinar

The first Resource person was Dr. Gajanan Ekbote sir started with education as fundamental right of all Education is fundamental for achieving full human potential, developing an equitable and just society, and promoting national development. Changes in education policy is necessary for Providing universal access to quality education is the key to India's continued ascent, and leadership on the global stage in terms of economic growth, social justice and equality, scientific advancement, national integration, and cultural preservation.

Dr. Ekbote also highlighted the key aspects of new education policy such as Ensuring Universal Access at All Levels of schooling from pre-primary school to Grade 12;Ensuring quality early childhood care and education for all children between 3-6 years; New Curricular and Pedagogical Structure (5+3+3+4);No hard separations between arts and sciences, between curricular and extra-curricular activities, between vocational and academic streams;

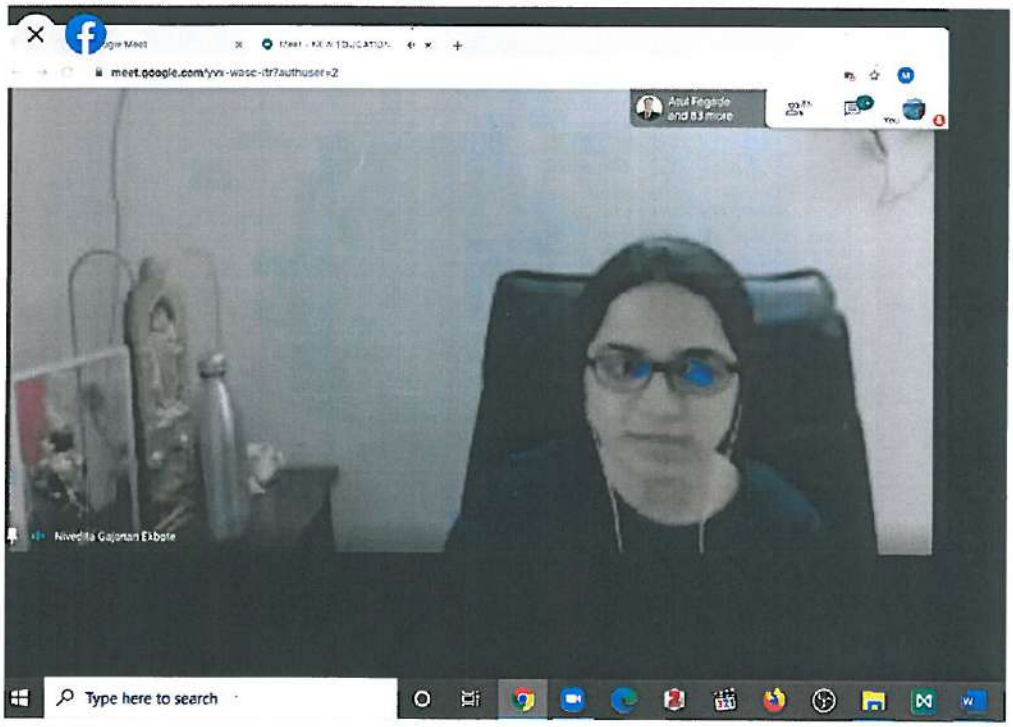
Establishing National Mission on Foundational Literacy and Numeracy; Emphasis on promoting multilingualism and Indian languages; The medium of instruction until at least Grade 5, but preferably till Grade 8 and beyond, will be the home language/mother tongue/local language/regional language.

He ended with focusing on the short comings of this policy and other grey areas under it In the National Education Policy 2020, language is a negative factor as there is a problematic teacher to student ratio in India, students willing to complete their graduation have to study for four years while one can easily complete his/ her diploma degree in two years. Concluding With the introduction of this new policy many changes have been made and one of those is the discontinuation of the M. Phil course. Even though there are many drawbacks to the new education policy, the merits are more in number. It is believed by many that by implementing these changes, the Indian academic system will be taken a step higher.



Prof. Aniruddha Deshpande Addressing the Participants of the Webinar

Second resource person was Prof. Aniruddha Deshpande who spoke on Multidisciplinary Approach and Multilingual Approach under the National Education Policy. The National Education Policy (NEP) 2020 focuses on key reforms in higher education that prepare the next generation to thrive and compete in the new digital age says sir prof. Aniruddha Deshpande. sir outlined the vision of India's new education system. NEP 2 focuses on five pillars: Affordability, Accessibility, Quality, Equity, and Accountability – to ensure continual learning. One of the key thrust areas of NEP is to encourage high R&D investments from government and private sectors. This will encourage innovation and innovative mindsets. To facilitate the same, there is a need for a strong industry commitment and close intervention with academia for industry led skilling / upskilling/ reskilling.



Dr. Nivedita Ekbote Addressing the Participants of the Webinar

Dr. Nivedita Ekbote was the third resource person she spoke on use of technology in higher education. She said that, Education will play a critical role in transforming the whole nation into a digitally empowered society and knowledge economy, technology itself will play a crucial role within the improvement of educational processes and outcomes; thus, the connection between technology and software the National Educational Technology Forum (NETF), are going to be created to supply a platform for the free exchange of ideas on the utilization of technology to reinforce learning, assessment, planning.

Indian Law Society's Law College

ABOUT THE WEBINAR

The Constitution of every nation is Supreme Law of land which upholds the rights and duties of individual. The aim of having a declaration of fundamental rights in the Constitution is to prevent possible danger due to the State action against violation of fundamental rights. Recognition of Fundamental Rights under the Constitution provides a restraint on the power of the government to interfere with the peoples' basic rights arbitrarily. When rights and freedoms are placed in the Constitution they become the part of the Supreme Law. The Fundamental Rights are included in the Constitution because they are considered essential for the development of individuals with human dignity. In this 21st century, the ambit of fundamental rights is expanding enormously. Comparative Constitutional Law is a newly energized field in the early 21st century. Never before has the field had such a broad range of interdisciplinary interest, with lawyers, sociologists and even economists making contributions to our collective understanding of how constitutions are formed and how they operate and protect fundamental rights. The need for the comparative method has become inevitable to study the very existence of fundamental rights. In current times when the society is fast changing, we often see the judiciary playing a pivotal role in the development and protection of the rights and duties enshrined under the public law documents.
