ⓘ ABOUT THE INDIAN KNOWLEDGE SYSTEM

The Indian Knowledge System (IKS) embodies a vast and diverse tradition of legal wisdom, rooted in ancient texts like the Vedas, Upanishads, Smritis etc. These texts form the foundation of India's historical jurisprudence and have influenced contemporary legal frameworks. This Conference aims to explore how these ancient legal principles, moral precepts, and philosophical thoughts rooted in Indian philosophy, remain relevant in today's governance, policy formation, legal system, law-making process, and societal structures.

ⓘ ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

The One-day Interdisciplinary Conference aims to understand and analyze the indigenous legal systems, and long legal traditions of India and their relevance to modern legal frameworks, by delving into ancient texts like the Bhagavad Gita, Shashtras, Smritis, Books, and Arthashastra. The Conference will provide insights into the development of laws, legal processes, historical jurisprudence, governance norms, and moral & ethical standards from a distinctly Indian perspective. The Conference will also examine the challenges of integrating these ancient legal systems into contemporary laws and policies, and explore their possible adaptability to modern legal education and practice.

OBJECTIVES OF THE CONFERENCE

1. Analysis of Ancient Legal Principles

To analyze legal principles from ancient texts such as the Dharmashastras, Arthashastra, various Smritis, and Vedas, and assess their relevance in modern legal contexts.

2.Integration into Modern Legal Education

To discuss the potential of integrating the Indian Knowledge System into modern legal education and practice.

3.Multilingual Legal Resources

To encourage the development of multilingual legal resources to promote the understanding of Indian legal traditions across diverse cultures.

4.Adaptation with Modern Technology

To explore how ancient legal principles can be adapted using modern technology for practical application.
